PREFATORY NOTE FROM THE MINISTER

To the Teachers:

The public are taking a greater interest than ever before in the work of the schools. The work of the schools is that of the teachers. It is therefore the duty of every teacher to satisfy himself that he is fully equipped for his work. To some, the Universities present opportunities during the summer for improving their status, while to many others, the Departmental courses supply the means of assisting them. In 1920, over 1,400 teachers attended the Summer Courses conducted by this Department. Many of them had already taken one or more courses, while not a few attended for the first time and are again preparing to continue their work. With a view to assisting and encouraging these and others, I purpose offering all of last year's courses. The attention of all teachers, and especially those who have in mind the question of summer study, is directed to the contents of this Circular. The following briefly indicates the various courses that are offered.

Courses Leading to First and Second Class Certificates

In Ontario there are over 9,000 teachers with Second Class certificates. The Department makes special provision under which these teachers may take their academic courses and examinations for First Class certificates in four parts. Having completed the four parts, a teacher holding a Second Class certificate who has had at least three years' successful experience in Ontario Public or Separate Schools may qualify for a First Class certificate without further attendance at a Normal School. He will require, however, to take the written and practical tests. The University Extension department of the University of Toronto offers assistance by correspondence to all teachers who desire guidance and help in their preparation for the examination. In 1921 instruction at the Summer Course will be given in the subjects of Parts A and B, and in 1922, in the subjects of Parts C and D.

The steady increase in the number of teachers with First and Second Class certificates leads me to appeal to the teachers holding Third Class certificates to put forth special effort to raise their status. Those who have already passed the Middle School examination will, I hope, soon find it possible to attend one of the Normal Schools. Those whose academic standing is yet insufficient, have an opportunity through the medium of the University Extension department and the Departmental Summer Courses of preparing for and passing their Middle School examination. This they may take in two parts. In 1921 instruction will be given in the subjects of Part A, and in 1922, in the subjects of Part B.

Kindergarten-Primary Course

The Normal School graduate at the commencement of her work in the schools, will find that a knowledge of the Kindergarten principles is not the least valuable of her equipment. There is a natural demand for Kindergarten-Primary classes and the Summer Course is intended to provide an opportunity for teachers to meet the needs of the schools.

Household Science

In recent years no subject pertaining to the schools has aroused more genuine interest than Household Science. As a subject of study, its value in view of its relation to the interests of the home is appreciated perhaps more fully in the smaller centres. The course is intended for teachers who are engaged in rural and village schools.

Manual Training

As the result of the increased interest in the subject of Manual Training and of the desire of teachers to obtain further assistance, Summer Courses will be provided again this year. These will include instruction in the work of Part I leading to the Elementary certificate. Hereafter, this certificate will be valid only in rural Public and Separate Schools.

Throughout the Province there are teachers holding Elementary certificates who, for sufficient reasons, have not found it practicable to withdraw from their positions and take the course leading to the Ordinary certificate. Commencing with this year, these teachers may qualify for that certificate by taking three Summer Courses. Holders of the Elementary certificate will be expected to qualify for the Ordinary certificate not later than 1925.

Vocal Music

For some years Vocal Music has been taught as a regular subject in the schools of a number of the larger centres. During the past two years, the teaching of the subject under qualified teachers or supervisors has been introduced into other schools, both large and small, situated in different parts of the Province, while at the present time, the trustees of still other centres are considering the question of introducing it. The teacher who is endowed with qualifications in Vocal Music has an opportunity of adding much both to his own enjoyment and to the school life of the community.

Art

The Summer Course in Art is designed to supplement the courses provided at the Normal Schools and the College of Education. In the re-arrangement of the courses that was effected in 1920, the teachers of this subject secured assistance and help of the most practical character for their work in the schools. This year further changes will be made in the courses with the object of making them still more helpful and beneficial to the teachers.

Agriculture

The large number of teachers who annually take the courses in Agriculture is evidence of the interest that they take in the subject. There is no reason why every rural and even urban teacher should not be doing his part in stimulating an interest in the subject.

Commercial Subjects

The number of opportunities for trained teachers of the Commercial subjects is in excess of the supply. Within the last few years, the University of Toronto and Queen's University, in response to a demand, have instituted special courses in Commerce. In this country there will continue to be an ever increasing demand for men and women trained in the Commercial subjects, and if that demand is to be met, the schools must do their part. In 1920, the course for Commercial teachers was re-arranged so that it might be taken in four parts.

Physical Culture

No teacher can afford to be out of touch with the physical activities of his students. The desire for bodily recreation is natural. The teacher should be sufficiently well equipped to be an important factor in directing the physical exercises of his pupils. The spirit of rivalry that is so characteristic of the physical exercises of boys and girls is one that should be encouraged and directed by the teachers.

Teachers of French

Secondary School teachers will have another opportunity this year of obtaining assistance of a practical character that will be of value to them in the classrooms.

Principals of Continuation Schools

By generous grants, the Department has endeavoured to improve the position of the Continuation School teacher. There are frequent opportunities for promotion from the position of assistant to that of principal. In the schools there are many teachers with Interim or Permanent First Class certificates who took their courses of training in 1917-18 and later. These certificates qualify the holders as teachers of Continuation Schools employing the time of only one teacher and as assistants in any Continuation School. Provision has now been made whereby such teachers, after obtaining Permanent First Class certificates and completing at least two sessions of one or more Departmental Summer Courses, will be qualified to act also as Principals of Grade B or Grade C Continuation Schools. Assistant teachers in the Continuation Schools are urged, where they have not already done so, to take the necessary courses that will result in the completion of their qualifications for principalships.

Auxiliary Classes

Teachers are frequently confronted with the problem of giving suitable or adequate attention to abnormal children. The problem varies according to the size of the municipality. This year at the request of School Boards in half a dozen cities, the Department conducted surveys of abnormal children and, as a result, next year, Auxiliary Classes will be opened in a number of new centres. The Toronto Board of Education plans to open at least ten new classes.

In 1919 the Department conducted a Summer Course for teachers of Auxiliary Classes. This year another Summer Course will provide an opportunity for teachers to gain a working knowledge of the special nature, needs and treatment of abnormal children.

Summer Model Schools

Summer Model Schools are provided for the purpose of preparing teachers for District and Third Class certificates valid only in certain schools of the Province. In addition to the professional training, instruction is also provided in the prescribed subjects of the academic course for admission to the Model Schools.

Vocational Courses

The need of some form of training of teachers of the shop or practical subjects in Industrial and Technical Schools has been felt for some time. Most of the teachers of these subjects come into the schools from industry, and while they are familiar with the processes, materials, and related knowledge of their shop work, they are unacquainted with the principles and untrained in the art of teaching. To meet this need, summer courses for teachers of vocational subjects are to be conducted in Toronto. Instructors in shop or other practical subjects now teaching on Temporary certificates will be required to qualify for Interim certificates by attending two summer sessions and passing the necessary examinations.

School Nurses

Medical surveys of the schools have been made under the supervision of the Department. School Nurses are being employed by many Boards of Trustees. These nurses bring to the attention of trustees and parents the necessity of paying more attention to the general care and health of the children. The work of the School Nurse emphasizes the important place of Medical and Dental inspection in the Educational System. With a view to providing a supply of nurses specially trained for work in the schools, a Summer Course was given in 1920. The continued demand for School Nurses makes it necessary to provide a course this year.

Minister of Education.
